Executive Committee of the Board of Directors North Jersey Street Railway

ACCUSED OF MANSLAUGHTER

Nine Children Were Killed by the Street Car Accident Which the Court is Considering.

JURY SWORN AND WITNESSES HEARD

NEWARK, September 1.—The seven members of the executive committee of the board of directors of the North Jersey Street Railway company, appeared Monday in the Essex county court for trial on an indictment charging them with manslaughter. On February 19 last nine Newark high school students were killed in a collision between a Clifton avenue trolley car and a Lackawanna express train.

Indictments were returned against Alexander J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company; John D. Crimmins, of New York; Edward F. C. Young, president of the North Jersey Street Railroad company and of the First National bank of Jersey city; Dr. Leslie D. Ward, vice president of the Prudential Insurance company; Elisha P. Gaddis, wholesale merchant and director of the Pennsylvania Railroad company; David Young, vice president and general manager of the North Jersey, and J. Roosevelt Shanley, members of the executive committee of the street railway company. In addition to these men there also appeared as defendants Charles M. Shipman, former general superintendent of the North Jersey; James Smith; Arthur W. Pratt and Richard Fisk, division officer of the company.

The indictment of these officials followed a verdict by the coroner's jury fixing responsibility on the North Jersey Street Railway company.

Although nine were killed in the accident, the indictments were based on the death of Ernestine Miller. Chief Justice Gummere and Justices Van Sickle and Dixon were on the bench. Prosecutor Charles W. Riker, who conducted the inquiry before the coroner's jury, is representing the state at the trial, assisted by Attorneys Hood and Wilson and former Judge Child.

On behalf of the defendants there appeared Former Governor Werts, R. V. Lindabury, Joseph Coult, James B. Vredenburgh and several others.

A large number of high school students who were passengers on the trolley car, were present as witnesses, while parents and other relatives of the victims filled the court room. When all the talesmen had answered to their names the work of selecting a jury began.

When the jury had been selected Prosecutor Riker opened for the state, reciting the nature of the accident, the condition of the tracks and dangers of the crossing. On the morning of the accident, he said, the crossing was covered with snow and ice, so that the brake shoes of the car were clogged. In consequence the car slipped down the incline, smashed through the gates and collided with the train. He said that common prudence demanded clean tracks, empty front platforms so as not to interfere with the motorman, and a safety derailing switch. These were absent in this case.

A Change at the Adams Express Office.

On Monday Route Agent John Dubbs, Jr., was in Bellefonte, and sprang a surprise on the people. H. F. Gearhart, who has been agent here for the past year or two has been made express messenger between Bellwood and Punxsutawney and Harry Taylor, who formerly had the run, takes Gearhart's place as agent at Bellefonte.

Mr. Taylor is an old Bellefonte boy and his many friends here will receive him with open arms. On the other hand it is a source of regret that Mr. and Mrs. Gearhart will leave Bellefonte and make their future home in Bellwood. They are popular young people with a large circle of friends who will be sorry to lose them from our midst.

—The great American Knetograph Company will soon exhibit in Petrikin Hall. Nothing old but everything new.

AN INTERESTING ITEM.

How the State Fish Hatchery Came to be Located Here.

There is an interesting story connected with the locating of the Fish hatchery at this place which the general public does not know and for their information we clip the following concerning the matter from the Erie Evening Herald of August 15.

Another state fish hatchery will be established at Bellefonte, Centre County, and it will be modern in every respect. The last legislature appropriated $15 000 for two additional hatcheries one to be located in the center of the state and the other in the eastern part of the state. The people of Bellefonte purchased a site and presented it to the fish commissioner.

There is an interesting story connected with the choice of Bellefonte and it was told to a Herald reporter by Fish Commissioner Hamberger. Mr. Hamberger and Charles G. Brevillier, Esq., were delegates to the last Republican State Convention held in Harrisburg. In the Convention hall Mr. Brevillier mistook another gentleman for Mr. Hamberger and gave him one of the familiar Erie greetings--namely a "gentle" touch on the back. The gentleman in question proved to be Col. W. F. Reeder, of Bellefonte. He was a good fellow and insisted on seeing the fellow who looked like him. The gentlemen were introduced and a social session followed. When Mr. Reeder found out that Mr. Hamberger was a state fish commissioner he served notice that Bellefonte wanted the state hatchery. Mr. Hamberger said that he was for Bellefonte and then Mr. Reeder "got a move on". The money to purchase a site was soon obtained.

DOUBLE MURDER.

Assassins Kill Two Employes of the Chicago City Railway Company on Sunday.

TWO OTHERS SEVERELY WOUNDED

The Robbers Secured $3,000 in Bills That Was Lying on the Cashier's Desk and Escaped.

FOUR SUSPECTS WERE ARRESTED

CHICAGO, Ill., August 31.—Without a word of warning two men were killed and two others wounded by hold-up men at the barns of the Chicago City Railway company, Sixty-first and State streets, at an early hour Sunday. The shooting was done by three men, who escaped after securing $3,000. Three of the men who were shot were working in the cashier's office and the other was a motorman asleep in the outer office.

The men in the office were shot before they were aware of the robbers' presence and the motorman was killed as he was rising from a bench where he had been asleep.

The robbers took no chances, but disposed of all the opposition of the employes before they entered the office.

Choosing the time when the employes were busily engaged in balancing up the receipts of the night, just after the last conductor had turned in his money and left the barns, the robbers suddenly appeared at the receiving window and began shooting.

The first intimation those inside the office had that anything was wrong was when they heard the shots. The first bullet fired struck Stewart and he fell to the floor without a word. Biehl and Edmond, who were sitting near Stewart, turned to see what was the matter, but before they could leave their chairs they were rendered helpless by the well directed bullets of the robbers.

Johnston, the motorman, who was asleep on a bench in the outer office, hearing the noise, started to go to the assistance of his companions, but was shot and killed before he could get on his feet. Making sure that all opposition had been removed the robbers then broke open the door of the cashier's office with a sledge hammer and secured $3,000 in bills which was lying on the desk. Then they made their escape.

Four men were arrested three hours after the robbery on suspicion of being implicated in the crime, but they have not as yet been identified.

DEATH ANGEL'S VISIT.

Mrs. Nora Brown of East Lamb Street Has Passed Away.

As the good folks were wending their way to church on Sunday morning, the peaceful Angel of death entered the Brown home on Lamb street, about 8 o'clock and called hence from that family circle their beloved mother, to go to a home in the Gloryland.

She had been a most patient sufferer, for years with that dreaded disease cancer. Everything that human skill and power could do was done for her. She underwent painful operations several times in the best hospitals in Philadelphia, but none were successful. But God had a cure which no one can understand, and at the time mentioned above she passed peacefully away.

Mrs. Brown, was 54 years old and a sincere christian lady, one who when in health would always be seen in her place of worship. When a little girl she united with St. Johns Catholic church and from that time until her death, she has been true to her faith. She was a kind, good mother to her children, always indulgent and tender in her love for them. She will be greatly missed in their home.

Her husband, the late William H. Brown Sr., was an old soldier having served his country faithfully during our struggle from '61 to '65. He preceded her to the grave about 10 years ago. She leaves to mourn her death the following children Jennie, Mary, Walter, David, William H. J., Arthur, Benjamin, Harry and George.

The funeral took place on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from St. John's Catholic church on Bishop street. Rev. Father McArdle officiating.

Peters Mass was sung and a beautiful address was made by Rev. Father McArdle. In it he spoke of her patience during her long siege of sickness and of her religious duties as to her church and family. He spoke of her as a genuine christian lady living as God would have her live. After the sermon Mrs. Arthur Brown rendered a beautiful solo entitled "Take Her My Jesus to Heaven," after which the funeral cortege wended their way to the Catholic cemetery where interment were made. The casket bearers were Messrs C. M. Parrish, Albert Shad, Daniel Heckman, Thomas Howley, S. D. Gettig and Charles Flack.

WILLIAMS REUNION.

An Interesting Report of the Big Picnic at Martha.

The fourth annual Williams Reunion was held in Miles' grove, near Martha, August 22nd. This historic and prosperous family were well represented from many parts of the state and especially from Centre and adjoining counties. They and their many friends who were present gave an estimated attendance of ten or twelve hundred people.

Favored with delightful weather the meeting was the most pleasant and successful in the history of the organization. After spending some time in pleasant social chat the meeting was called to order by the president of the association, A. C. Williams.

Interesting addresses were made by the Revs. A. C. Lathrop, of Milesburg; J. C. Young, of New Washington, and Geo. W. Downing, of Pitcairn. The meeting was adjourned for dinner.

After all had partaken of the choice viands which the ladies of the tribe had prepared the meeting was again called to order.

The Scotia band rendered several pleasing selections. The following resolutions were then read and adopted:

WHEREAS, Since the organization of the Williams Reunion several of our members have fallen asleep in the long slumber of death, some in the morning of life, full of hope and vigor; some in ripe old age having lived an honorable life, among them,

Uncle Elijah Williams, born May 6th, 1833, died April 7th, 1903.

Meshach Williams, died April 20th, 1903, aged 56 years, 1 month, 26 days.

Stella, daughter of Elijah Williams, born Feb. 8th, 1879, died Jan. 11th, 1903.

Edward, son of Elijah Williams, born Aug. 24th 1874, died Oct. 7th, 1901.

Verbie E. Beyer, daughter of Mary Ellen Williams Adams, born Sept. 10th, 1868, died Nov. 22nd, 1901.

George Clyde, son of Geo. W. Williams, born Oct. 7th, 1876, died Aug. 21, 1901.

Marion C. daughter of Ellis Williams born April 18, 1902, Died Jan. 17th, 1903.

Resolved that in these visitations of Providence we be mindful of the old family motto of our ancestors in Wales, "As God wills so will we," and submit our wills to Him whose ways are not our ways nor his thoughts and reminded that we are all traveling to the grave that we seek to prepare for that event, that when the roll is called we, as individual families, may answer to our names. Respectfully submitted.

E. L. WILLIAMS,
S. S. MILES,
Ida R. WILLIAMS.
Com.

Rev. E. L. Williams then gave a very interesting address, in which he suggested, that a scientific department be established to provide nature's protection for the Williams' heads. Using the story of Esau as an illustration he urged the clan to prize their heritage to be all that God had given them to be. This was followed by the election of officers for the next year, which was as follows: Pres. W. H. Williams, Vice Pres. A. C. Williams; Sec'y, Ida R. Williams; Cor. Sec'y, G. G. Fink; Historian, A. Y. Williams; Pret. J. O. Harpster.

Biehl and Edmond, who were sitting near Stewart, turned to see what was the matter, but before they could leave their chairs they were rendered helpless by the well directed bullets of the robbers.

Johnston, the motorman, who was asleep on a bench in the outer office, hearing the noise, started to go to the assistance of his companions, but was shot and killed before he could get on his feet. Making sure that all opposition had been removed the robbers then broke open the door of the cashier's office with a sledge hammer and secured $3,000 in bills which was lying on the desk. Then they made their escape.

Four men were arrested three hours after the robbery on suspicion of being implicated in the crime, but they have not as yet been identified.

DEATH ANGEL'S VISIT.

Mrs. Nora Brown of East Lamb Street Has Passed Away.

As the good folks were wending their way to church on Sunday morning, the peaceful Angel of death entered the Brown home on Lamb street, about 8 o'clock and called hence from that family circle their beloved mother, to go to a home in the Gloryland.

She had been a most patient sufferer, for years with that dreaded disease cancer. Everything that human skill and power could do was done for her. She underwent painful operations several times in the best hospitals in Philadelphia, but none were successful. But God had a cure which no one can understand, and at the time mentioned above she passed peacefully away.

Mrs. Brown, was 54 years old and a sincere christian lady, one who when in health would always be seen in her place of worship. When a little girl she united with St. Johns Catholic church and from that time until her death, she has been true to her faith. She was a kind, good mother to her children, always indulgent and tender in her love for them. She will be greatly missed in their home.

Her husband, the late William H. Brown Sr., was an old soldier having served his country faithfully during our struggle from '61 to '65. He preceded her to the grave about 10 years ago. She leaves to mourn her death the following children Jennie, Mary, Walter, David, William H. J., Arthur, Benjamin, Harry and George.

The funeral took place on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from St. John's Catholic church on Bishop street. Rev. Father McArdle officiating.

Peters Mass was sung and a beautiful address was made by Rev. Father McArdle. In it he spoke of her patience during her long siege of sickness and of her religious duties as to her church and family. He spoke of her as a genuine christian lady living as God would have her live. After the sermon Mrs. Arthur Brown rendered a beautiful solo entitled "Take Her My Jesus to Heaven," after which the funeral cortege wended their way to the Catholic cemetery where interment were made. The casket bearers were Messrs C. M. Parrish, Albert Shad, Daniel Heckman, Thomas Howley, S. D. Gettig and Charles Flack.

WILLIAMS REUNION.

An Interesting Report of the Big Picnic at Martha.

The fourth annual Williams Reunion was held in Miles' grove, near Martha, August 22nd. This historic and prosperous family were well represented from many parts of the state and especially from Centre and adjoining counties. They and their many friends who were present gave an estimated attendance of ten or twelve hundred people.

Favored with delightful weather the meeting was the most pleasant and successful in the history of the organization. After spending some time in pleasant social chat the meeting was called to order by the president of the association, A. C. Williams.

Interesting addresses were made by the Revs. A. C. Lathrop, of Milesburg; J. C. Young, of New Washington, and Geo. W. Downing, of Pitcairn. The meeting was adjourned for dinner.

After all had partaken of the choice viands which the ladies of the tribe had prepared the meeting was again called to order.

The Scotia band rendered several pleasing selections. The following resolutions were then read and adopted:

WHEREAS, Since the organization of the Williams Reunion several of our members have fallen asleep in the long slumber of death, some in the morning of life, full of hope and vigor; some in ripe old age having lived an honorable life, among them,

Uncle Elijah Williams, born May 6th, 1833, died April 7th, 1903.

Meshach Williams, died April 20th, 1903, aged 56 years, 1 month, 26 days.

Stella, daughter of Elijah Williams, born Feb. 8th, 1879, died Jan. 11th, 1903.

Edward, son of Elijah Williams, born Aug. 24th 1874, died Oct. 7th, 1901.

Verbie E. Beyer, daughter of Mary Ellen Williams Adams, born Sept. 10th, 1868, died Nov. 22nd, 1901.

George Clyde, son of Geo. W. Williams, born Oct. 7th, 1876, died Aug. 21, 1901.

Marion C. daughter of Ellis Williams born April 18, 1902, Died Jan. 17th, 1903.

Resolved that in these visitations of Providence we be mindful of the old family motto of our ancestors in Wales, "As God wills so will we," and submit our wills to Him whose ways are not our ways nor his thoughts our thoughts and reminded that we are all traveling to the grave that we seek to prepare for that event, that when the roll is called we, as individual families, may answer to our names. Respectfully submitted.

E. L. WILLIAMS,
S. S. MILES,
Ida R. WILLIAMS.
Com.

Rev. E. L. Williams then gave a very interesting address, in which he suggested, that a scientific department be established to provide nature's protection for the Williams' heads. Using the story of Esau as an illustration he urged the clam to prize their heritage to be all that God had given them to be. This was followed by the election of officers for the next year, which was as follows: Pres. W. H. Williams, Vice Pres. A. C. Williams; Sec'y, Ida R. Williams; Cor. Sec'y, G. G. Fink; Historian, A. Y. Williams; Pret. J. O. Harpster.

The following is a statement of the finances of the association balance from last year $9.53. Whole receipts for the year $35.05. Paid band $20.00 for use of grove $10.00, cost of correspondence $2.00 cost of emblems $7.20. Total expenses $39.20 leaving a balance in tressury $5.38.

TELESCOPE FOR AFRICA

Description of Instrument to Be Mounted at Bulawayo.

LIGHT IN WEIGHT, BUT DURABLE.

It Is Very Similar to Those In Use at Georgetown University and the United States Naval Observatory. Results of Observation to Be Sent to Washington Before Given to the World.

South Africa will shortly have one of the finest telescopes in the world, says the Washington Post. This magnificent instrument was built in Washington. It is constructed much on the same lines as those at Georgetown university observatory and the United States Naval observatory. It is the same size optically, the object glass having an aperture of twelve inches. However, as the latitude of Bulawayo, Rhodesia, for which place the instrument is intended, is 20 degrees south instead of nearly 40 degrees north, as the location in Washington, the arrangement of the instrument is necessarily different. The focus is five feet shorter, and on this account the mounting is lighter.

This telescope is very rigidly built, although mere weight was not the object sought. The telescope tube weighs about one ton, and about 5,000 pounds are moved when the instrument is turned in right ascension. It consists of a heavy iron pillar, on top of which rests the head stock carrying the polar and declination axes. The former points to the pole, and it is made to rotate by means of clockwork at the exact rate the stars move, so that if a star be brought into the field of the telescope it can be kept in view for hours, as the clock moves with the utmost regularity. Should any deviation occur on account of difference in friction in different positions this is instantly corrected by an ingenious arrangement called the control, which is affected electrically and governed by the standard clock of the observatory that moves easily with the stars. The two axes of the instrument—the polar and the declination—are provided with circles used to point the telescope to a certain position in the sky, and the fine graduations can be read from the eye end by means of microscopes. For approximate and more rapid setting these circles are also provided with coarse graduations which can be seen with the naked eye.

There is another arrangement, however, which enables the observer to set the telescope without looking at the circles and without calculating the hour angle of the object sought. This consists of two dials placed at the south end of the pillar at the height of the observer's eye. The two axes of the instrument are geared down and end in two hand wheels; by turning either of these the motions are indicated on the dials. Each dial hand moves at double the speed of the corresponding axis. The declination dial is figured from naught to ninety degrees each way, the smallest space being one degree. The right ascension dial has five second spaces and is driven by an ordinary eight day clock. As the dial turns with the star and the hand with the telescope, this arrangement permits to set by right ascension instead of calculating the hour angle, which consumes much time. Notwithstanding the large number of gears involved in driving this mechanism, the total back lash is so small that a star of known co-ordinates is brought near the center of the findings at once. George N. Saegmuller is the inventor of this valuable instrument. He planned it in 1888, and a few years later he placed it in the great Denver telescope of twenty inches aperture, built in Washington.

The lightness of this South African telescope is remarkable, while at the same time every part is strong and durable. The force necessary to move the instrument is about four pounds on a radius of seven inches. The motions are also communicated to the eye end, and it takes only a force of about two ounces to clamp and remove the telescope either in right ascension or declination. The fine hour circles can be read from the floor, and the declination circle from the eye end of the instrument. This eye end is so arranged that the spectograph and photographic apparatus can be readily attached. The illumination is by means of incandescent lamps, and, in addition, there is a self adjusting oil lamp. A very complicated measuring apparatus, called the position micrometer, accompanies this instrument.

Rev. Father Goetz, S. J., the celebrated Jesuit astronomer who went to South Africa some months ago to erect an observatory at Bulawayo, is preparing a place for this great telescope. Observations will begin at the earliest day possible, and the reports will be forwarded to Georgetown university and be given to the world from Washington.

Novel Dental Device.

A Moscow dentist has invented a system whereby false teeth can be made to grow into the gums as firmly as natural ones. After a few months' use it is just as hard to extract them as it is to dislodge the genuine molar made on the premises. Soon, possibly, this tooth grafting Muscovite will achieve, suggests the London Globe, that giddiest height to which the dentist can soar, the manufacture of false teeth that ache.

NOTED ARMLESS HORSEMAN

How W. B. Denny Handled Spirited Animals Despite Loss of Arms.

The late W. B. Denny, known far and wide as the "Armless Horseman," long a resident of Washington, lost his arms by the premature discharge of a salute over the body of General George H. Thomas, says the New York Times. For many years he had a position in the war department, but a year ago he resigned to give his whole time to his horses. He was a cavalryman during the war and always had a great fondness for horses. He had owned and driven some of the finest singles and teams seen in Washington.

His courage and skill with mettlesome, highly bred animals was remarkable. He was a familiar figure on the streets of the capital and often drove and won on the race tracks of the District and adjourning states. His driving was marvelous, in that he seemed to accomplish his conquest of the worst horse by talking to him and so gaining his confidence. When he undertook to drive a strange and spirited team or to break a young horse he first saw that every strap and buckle was at its proper place; then he placed one rein over his right shoulder and the other beneath his left arm, the two reins being made fast with a strong buckle turned under so that it was impossible to slip or come loose. With the stub of his arms he was able to guide the animals. The weight of his body against the reins brought the horses to a slow up if they got fast and fretful. Twisting his shoulders and body from side to side, seesawing the bits in the mouths until the horses were willing to quiet down and trot gently along, he was able to manage them.

Last spring some of the owners of fast steppers had a number of races at Brightwood Driving park, Mr. Denny's late home, and he had a team entered in a trotting race. The young man who was to drive showed in the line up that Mr. Denny's team had a bad chance to win. Mr. Denny became irritated at the stupid horsemanship and, ordering the young fellow out of the sulky, jumped in, adjusted the reins in a twinkling and succeeded in getting a good position, winning the race easily. Many of the best horsemen in the District and a number from elsewhere were present, and all declared that they had never witnessed such a fine exhibition on any track.

BREAKING IT GENTLY.

He Showed the Widow Why It Was Too Late to Mourn.

After the ship which had come from New Zealand was tied up at the wharf Larry O'Brien was told off by his shipmates to call upon Mrs. McCarthy and break the news of the death of her husband, which had occurred on shipboard the preceding summer. The Brooklyn Eagle tells how he did it:

"Good morning, Mrs. McCarthy!" said he. "Is Denny in?"

"Denny?" said the surprised woman. "My Denny? No, he's not in. Is the ship here?"

"Sure it is. And Denny's not got home yet? That's quare—unless something has happened him."

"What would happen him?" Mrs. McCarthy asked anxiously.

"There's plenty of things can happen a man," said Larry delicately. "He might have got hurted or he might have took sick with the fever. But there's one comfort, as Father McGinnis said once, and that is that time heals iv'ry grief."

"What do you mane, Mr. O'Brien?"

"I mane that if anything happened to Denny you wouldn't feel as bad about it a few months after it happened as you would right at the time, would you?"

"I suppose not," said Mrs. McCarthy. "I mind whin I lost me first husband I thought I'd never get over it. But, as you say, in a few months it was aisier to bear."

"Then, Mrs. McCarthy, you'll be glad to know that it's now four months—nearly five—since Denny died. Sure, it can't grieve you now as much as it would if you'd known it at the time."

Hundred Dollar Bill Washed to Pulp.

Michael McCarthy of Brooklyn is bewailing the loss of $100 which he had left in the pocket of a soiled shirt, says a New York special. He was afraid to leave the bill in the bank and put it in the pocket of his linen shirt. There it remained until he gave the shirt out to be washed. He had forgotten all about the bill, and it was not until he wanted another clean shirt that he remembered it. He fumbled in the pocket for the bill, but all he could find was a few torn pieces of paper well ironed out and blurred.

MR. AND MRS. R. A. BECK.

Welcomed Home Thursday Evening In Royal Style.

With the band playing, the people cheering, the small boys blowing horns, beautiful fire works flying through the air, our good friend Robert A. Beck and his charming bride were received by the 2000 of our town people who gathered at the Pennsylvania Railroad station on Thursday evening to welcome them home to Bellefonte.

Mr. Beck is a fireman of renown, having won several medals for his prominence in different departments of the work and he was told by his friends that when he would be married they would give him a royal reception and, so they were only fulfilling their promise.

Long before the train was due the platform and High street was jammed full of people anxious to see the newly married couple. About eight o'clock a handsome French trap, one of the real high ones, was brought to the station, it had about 100 feet of rope attached to it. When the train pulled into the station, the Logan Fire Company of which he was a member, formed a passageway from the platform of the car to the trap in which Mr. Beck and his bride were to ride.

As he stepped from the car he was given a fireman's hat and coat to don, and then he was escorted to the conveyence amid the din of noise and excitement. The procession started led by the Coleville Band followed by fifty of the company drawing the trap which held the bride and groom. The line of parade was up High street to Spring street to Bishop street to Allegheny street to Howard street, countermarching to High street to Mr. Becks home, where the people anxiously awaited the appearance of Mr. Beck at the window.

In a neat little speech he thanked every body for their kindness in giving them such a royal reception home.

Altogether it was one of the happiest nights in Mr. Beck's life, and it went to show his popularity and the esteem Bellefonte has for him The REPUBLICAN joins in, Mr. Beck, and wishes you and your bride a life full of joy and happiness.

A Coal Mines in McBride's Gap.

There has been considerable excitement among the owners of property along the north side of Nittany mountain between Pleasant Gap and Lemont because of the finding of a small vein of coal on the Henry Reitz place, in McBride's gap.

The out cropping of the coal was discovered some time ago, but it was never given enough attention to be regarded as worthy of investigation until lately when music dealer M. C. Gephart, of this place, and a man by the name of Miller secured a lease on the property and started into mine. They have been at it about two months with the result that they have a 25 ft., slope cut into the hill after a vein that up to this time has showed no greater thickness than eight inches.

From appearances the coal seems to be semi-bituminous. It looks all right and burns nicely. All that is needed is more of it.

Farming in the Transvaal.

Dr. Hartley our good friend the medicine man who has been doing such a good business in Bellefonte the past ten days, has a brother over in the South African region and in a letter to his home in East Lanshire, England, says: "If a farmer takes my advice they will stay in their own country as the farmers here are making only a bare living. If a farmer can raise one half his stock he breeds he is lucky as many of them sometimes lose every hoof they possess during what is called here the sick season, which lasts about three months. There is a horse disease called the "rindenfest" and many others to numerous to mention, which carry away the stock like feathers before the wind. So he advises our good farmers to stay in God's Country and be contented.

RUSSIA'S NEW CITY.

M. M. Langhorne Believes Dalny Has an Unlimited Future.

"The Building of Dalny" is the subject of a special article by Mr. M. M. Langhorne, commercial agent of the United States, recently issued by the department of commerce and labor as an advance sheet of the consular reports, says the New York Herald.

Mr. Langhorne tells the story of the enterprise displayed by the Russian government in building a great commercial city on the eastern shore of the Liaotung peninsula, about twenty miles from Port Arthur and within territory leased by the Chinese government to Russia on March 27, 1898.

Commanding a situation equal to that of Port Arthur, Dalny is believed by Mr. Langhorne to have an unlimited future, since the Russian lease includes a harbor that is being converted into one of the best in the world. The city is the southern terminus of the Chinese Eastern railway and the headquarters of the company. In fact, the city is being constructed by the Chinese Eastern Railway company under the direction of the Russian minister of finance, M. Witte.

Dalny is divided into three parts—the administration city, the European and commercial city and the Chinese city. The administration city borders on the harbor and bay and is 108 acres in extent. All space in that quarter is reserved for the use of the Chinese Eastern Railway company and its officials. One of the features giving solidity to the industrial future of Dalny is the fact that it manufactures nearly everything in the way of materials used in building.

The harbor is the scene of the greatest activity at present. The small harbor has been dredged to a depth of eighteen feet, and the pier for coast steamers, which has been in use for over a year, is nearly completed and has a railroad to its end. Trains are now in operation from St. Petersburg and Moscow to Dalny.

Japan furnishes the bulk of the coal imported, Russia the cement and kerosene, Korea and the United States the timber and the United States the flour. Provisions are obtained principally from Shanghai and other trade centers of the east.

The First Measure of Time.

It was the moon and not the sun which first suggested to mankind the circle of the year as a measure of time. The sun exhibits no changes of appearance, and his light obliterates all the landmarks of the sky. A luminary which is the same yesterday, today and tomorrow might give rise to conceptions of perfection and eternity, but beyond the alterations of day and night it could suggest to men's minds no abstract measure of time. But with our humble satellite it is far otherwise. The regularly recurring phenomena of new moon and full moon are too marked to escape the attention of the most obtuse and unreflecting of savages.

The motion of the sun may be compared to that of the minute hand of a clock, sweeping on hour after hour without leaving much record of its comparatively vast journey. The progress of the moon, on the contrary, may be likened to that of the hour hand, which registers the movements of its companion and resolves them into twelve well defined periods.

Outcome of the Acre Dispute.

The Acre dispute has been settled. Bolivia will acknowledge Brazil's sovereignty over a great part of Acre territory, while Brazil will pay an indemnity for military expenditures made by Bolivia and will build a harbor on the river Madeira and a railway from Mamore to Madeira.

Geo. Cox residing on what is known as Half Moon Hill says; "I can conscientiously recommend Doan's Kidney Pills judging from what they did for me. I suffered intensely from pains in my back and lameness across my kidneys. Statements in this paper about Doan's Kidney Pills attracted my attention and I called at F. Potts Green's drug store and got a box. They did me a great deal of good although I did not take them as regularly as I should for the moment the pains ceased and I felt better I stopped taking them. They gave me the greatest relief and I can give them the credit of saving me much suffering".

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address Binghamton, N. Y., one very bottle.

Train Your Girls.

No observant person can have failed to notice the grievous laxity in the ordinary American home in the training of girls, even where the parents are sound-hearted and respectable. Young girls in Philadelphia or almost any city, may be seen parading the streets free from all guidance and supervision in a way which forebodes evil results, at the very least in bad manners. Many of these girls have no thought of evil, but the flippant manner, the lack of reserve where strangers are concerned, the reckless behavior, and the habit of gadding about at their own free will on city streets and in public places, lead inevitably to a hardening of character and a hopeless vulgarization. Many a tragedy, too, has its beginning in this way. Parents who have toiled and moiled for their children, and who would give, in fact, literally have given their own lives for them, fail; and their failure is directly traceable to the lack of restraint upon the two great freedom of young girls.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Odd Fellows' Reunion.

About five hundred people went to Hunter's Park Thursday morning to attend the first annual reunion of Odd Fellows at that place and everything seemed primed for a very successful gathering when rain began falling about 1 o'clock and put an end to all the enthusiasm.

While the Odd Fellows and their friends were able to keep dry in the pavilions and enjoy the rest of the day day as best they could rain was certainly the last visitor they were ready to welcome.

The pure, unadulterated Witch Hazel is used in making DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which is the best salve in the world for cuts, burns, bruises, boils, eczema and piles. The popularity of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, due to its many cures, has caused numerous worthless counterfeits to be placed on the market. The genuine bears the name of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. Heaviest Man in State Dies.

Wilson Lippincott, who has been the subject of many write-ups, and known as the heaviest man in the state, died suddenly Monday at his home in Bristol of heart disease. Finding Indian Relics.

F. M. Weaver, of near Hughesville, is still picking up Indian arrow heads on his farm which, no doubt, was a rendezvous of some tribes. Mr. Weaver has in his possession an unique specimen of arrow head picked up some time ago. It is about three inches in length, an inch in width at the widest part, is made of yellow flint and about an inch of the tip is bright red, probably poisoned by dipping into some solution.

He has also unearthed two large fire pits, which strengthens the idea that this was the very ground upon which some grand pow-wows were held by the aborigines.—Williamport Sun.

Wedding at Milesburg.

On Wednesday evening at 6.30 the pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. S P. Neyhart of Milesburg was the scene of a very happy event.

It was the marriage occasion of Miss Cora Singleton of Oil City to Mr. Edward N. Neyhart of Milesburg. Only the immediate friends and relatives were present. Miss Katherine Baldrige and Mr. Glenn Neyhart acted as bridesmaid and best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter Carson pastor of the Presbyterian church at Milesburg. Mr. Neyhart is one of Milesburg's industrious young men and holds an excellent position with the Cambria Steel Works at Johnstown, Pa.

This paper joins in with their many friends, and wishes them happiness, joy and success through life.

Bribery In Elections.

Bribery in elections is an ancient if not an honorable custom. This is shown in the case of Shrewsbury, England. An extract from Parry's "Parliaments and Councils of England" of a case of bribery, with its punishment, in 1571 shows how long the pernicious custom has been in practice: "Thomas Long, 'a very simple man and unfit' to serve, is questioned how he came to be elected. He confesses that he gave the mayor of Westbury and another £4 for his place. They are ordered to repay this sum, and a fine of £20 is to be assessed on the corporation and inhabitants of Westbury for their scandalous attempt." One can imagine the indignation of those inhabitants of Shrewsbury who received no bribe having to pay a fine for those who did.

Queer Looking Worms.

New Zealand, Australia, the Samoan and the Solomon islands, as well as portions of the Hawaiian group, are the homes of various species of worms with thick, heavy bodies and with a well defined neck connecting the body with a head that is a startling reminder of that of the monkey. In the Sandwich Islands they are called "me-ta-luki," which means "creeper with a child's head." An old New Zealand legend says that at one time they were of immense proportions and threatened the extinction of all human life on the islands.

Prudence and Prevention.

The following quaintly worded notice is posted outside the offices of one of the street car companies of Paris: "We beg to inform burglars that we do not leave money or valuables in any of our depots during the night. You are requested to make known this fact among the confraternity, so as to avoid unnecessary trouble and loss of time." The newspaper which publishes the above adds, "Prudence and prevention are the two mothers of safety."

Pedigrees of Arabian Horses.

The Arabs have no written pedigrees. It is all an affair of memory and of notoriety in the tribe. Certain alleged pedigrees of Arabian horses, couched in romantic language and represented as carried in a small bag and hung by a cord around the animal's neck, have been published, but these are forgeries got up probably by horse dealers, Egyptian, Syrian or Persian. The breeding of every horse is a matter of common knowledge, and it would be impossible for his owner to fabricate pedigree so as to deceive the natives, even if he were so inclined. The Bedouins, it seems necessary to admit, are in general great liars, and they will lie (to a stranger) about the age, the qualities or the ownership of a horse, but they will not lie about his pedigree, even when they can do so with impunity. To be truthful on this subject is almost a matter of religion, certainly a point of honor in the desert.—Atlantic.

Animals That Delight to Play.

In animals the faculty of amusement awakes very early. Our four footed friends seem to be aware of this and make it a part of their parental duties to amuse their young. A ferret will play with her kittens, a cat with hers, a dog with her puppies. A mare will play with her foal, though the writer has never seen a cow try to amuse her calf nor any birds their young. If their mothers do not amuse them, the young ones invent games of their own.—London Tit-Bits.

The Coldness of Space.

Away out in space is a cold so intense that we fairly fail to grasp its meaning. Perhaps 300 or 400 degrees below the freezing point of water, some philosophers think, are the dark recesses beyond our atmosphere. And night and day, summer and winter, this insatiate space is robbing us of our heat and fighting with demoniac power to reduce our globe to its own bitter chill.

COFFEE FREED OF HARM.

Dyspeptic Devotees Advised to Take It In Form of a Jelly.

Dyspeptics, to whom hot coffee after dinner is a forbidden delight, are offered a substitute in the form of coffee jelly. "Coffee," says the London Lancet, "serves an admirable purpose in dietetics, and those with whom it disagrees when taken in the form of a hot infusion will probably find a clear jelly after dinner quite satisfactory.

"Coffee, unlike alcohol, diminishes organic waste and rouses muscular energy without the collapse which follows alcoholic imbibition, and gelatin in the form of a jelly is cooling, assuages thirst, is soothing and has a tendency to absorb any excessive acidity of the stomach."

CHARLOTTE CUSHMAN.

Bitter Ending of the One Love Affair of the Famous Actress.

Charlotte Cushman, the actress, was in love but once in her life. She met in Cincinnati, where she was playing, an actor named Clark, with whom she fell in love. Through her efforts Clark was advanced to leading man in the company, and the course of true love ran smoothly.

One night the actress met a strange woman behind the scenes between the acts.

The woman came up to her and addressed her thus:

"You are Charlotte Cushman, the great actress. Haven't you got enough men to admire you without coming between man and wife and robbing me of my husband?"

"Your husband!" cried Miss Cushman, getting excited.

"Yes, and you have taken or you are trying to take him from me," continued the ragged woman, looking Miss Cushman full in the face.

"Who is your husband?"

"Conrad Clark," replied the woman, "the father of this child," pointing to a half starved, thin little child in her arms.

Miss Cushman started as if she had been shot.

She went through her part that night as usual—acted it splendidly—brought down the house; then, after the performance, she sent for Clark to come to her dressing room. Clark knocked and then opened the door. She brought forward to him his wife and baby, who had been waiting in the dressing room to receive him.

Such a reception! Charlotte Cushman never looked or acted so grandly on the stage in all her life as she did that night in her dressing room. She waved Clark away with a greater majesty than ever as Queen Catherine she waved away Cardinal Wolsey, and then going to her hotel probably she had a good crying spell.

But she never loved again.

Spain's Migratory Sheep.

There are about 10,000,000 migratory sheep in Spain, which each year travel as much as 200 miles from the plains to the mountains. They are known as transhumantes, and their march, resting places and behavior are governed by special regulations, dating from the fourteenth century. At certain times no one may travel the same route as the sheep, which have the right to graze on all open and common land on the way. For this purpose a road ninety yards wide must be left on all inclosed and private property. The shepherds lead their flocks, which follow after and around. The flocks are accompanied by provision mules and by large dogs to guard against wolves. The merino sheep travel 400 miles to the mountains, and the total time spent on the migration there and back is fourteen weeks.

Why Rats Gnaw.

Rats and squirrels have teeth which grow all the time. In the case of a rat, the tooth pulp is perpetual and is continually secreting material by which it gains length. Therefore the animal is obliged to gnaw all the time to keep the tooth down to its proper length. It is commonly believed that rats keep gnawing out of pure mischief, but such is not the case.

The Lipton Cocktail.

The guests of Sir Thomas Lipton on board the Erin during the second race for the America's cup presented him with a loving cup, on which was engrossed:

SIR THOMAS J. LIPTON.

His British majesty's ambassador extraordinary of international good will and minister plenipotentiary of strenuous peace at the court of the American people.

Accompanying the gift were the following verses:

Comrade held dear in many lands,
Master of many gentle arts;
Behold, we stretch to you our hands,
With nothing in them—but our hearts!

This cup you "lift" and carry hence,
And, if third Shamrock haply fail,
Will be a little recompense
To cheer you on your homeward sail.

This "heart" cup mingles all we feel
When we your deeds recite or sing;
Respect for you from peak to keel—
A "cocktail" worthy of a king.

The formula? 'Tis easy learned.
A lion's tail, an eagle's claw,
The love of friends, the plaudits earned
And just a dash of usquebaugh.

Heady? Why, bless you, not a bit!
Hearty, we grant. On deck or shore
Drink deep, take all you will of it,
For whence it came there's plenty more.

RELIANCE'S SKIPPER.

Captain Barr's Skill Shown In Many Yacht Races.

"Wee" Charlie Barr, as he has been known for years, who sails the Reliance in the yacht races, made his debut in this world in Scotland, but came to the United States many years ago, says the Baltimore American. He, like many another subject of the queen, soon realized the opportunities offered by the new country and decided to make it his home.

After making some reputation here in his chosen profession he recrossed the western ocean and brought back with him a wife, the sweetheart of days gone by in the Scottish hills. His present home port is New London, where he owns a handsome little cottage within sound of the sea he loves so well. He is a naturalized citizen, and Old Glory has no more stanch supporter than the sailing master of the Reliance.

Fifteen years ago Captain Barr was a sailor on the Thistle when that craft challenged for the America's cup. She was sailed by John Barr, but it is a matter of history that she failed in her mission, and Charles Barr spent several years in smaller craft in the vicinity of Boston. The next craft of international importance in which he figured was the Navahoe, built for Royal Phelps Carroll in 1893. Captain Barr was selected to navigate her across the ocean, and to him was intrusted the task of sailing her in British waters. The Navahoe won back the Brenton's reef cup under his skillful guidance, but he left her before the end of the season. On his return to this country he accepted the berth as first mate on the Jubilee, which was commanded by his brother and had been built as a possible defender for the America's cup by General Paine.

The Jubilee and two other aspirants for international yachting laurels were defeated by the Vigilant, and Captain Barr left Boston for New York. He sailed the Vigilant in her trial races against the Defender in 1895, and when the Columbia was built to meet the Shamrock I. in 1899 Captain Barr was selected by Mr. Iselin to sail the Herreshoff creation. In 1901 he again successfully defended the cup in the Columbia against Shamrock II. after defeating the Constitution in the various trial races.

Cheese Dishes.

Cheese is one of the most concentrated forms of nitrogenous food and as a food well adapted to the laboring man or those working in the open air. When properly cooked, cheese is probably more easily assimilated by the ordinary stomach than eaten raw, and hard, uncooked cheese should be served grated. In combination with certain food materials cheese is valuable, but when used in this way should form the staple dish of the meal. Macaroni and cheese, rice cooked in stock and then baked with cheese or cooked with it, as in the form of risotto, should be used in the place of meat. An ordinary dinner menu of meat, potato, macaroni and cheese is not properly arranged. Macaroni and cheese should be used for a luncheon dish, and a green vegetable should be served with meat and potato.

Big Ships For Great Lakes.

Announcement will soon be made from the Cleveland offices of the American Shipbuilding company of the closing of contracts for the largest ships ever built for fresh water, says a Duluth (Minn.) dispatch. The first of the ships will be out some time the coming year. These new ships are to be 550 feet long over all, probably about 57 feet beam and 31 feet deep. They will carry not less than 11,000 tons of ore or other bulk freight.

STATE CAMPAIGN OPEN

Pennsylvania Republicans to Make An Aggressive Canvass.

PRELIMINARY WORK IS DONE

Party Organization, Which Is the Greatest In the Country, Is Preparing to Roll Up An Immense Majority.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, Sept. 1.—With the beginning of this week the Republican campaign in Pennsylvania can fairly be said to be already under way. While the formal opening of the state committee's headquarters in this city will not take place for a few days, there has been a vast amount of preliminary work done since the candidates were placed in the field. The chairmen of the several county committees are in a position to get down to practical campaigning at once.

Senator Boies Penrose, who succeeded Senator Quay as chairman of the Republican state committee, is expected home from the wilds of British Columbia in a few days, and Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, secretary of the state committee for many years, will be here on Monday next. Colonel Andrews has been at work practically all summer, with temporary headquarters in Meadville, where he has had a corps of clerks, stenographers and typewriters engaged on correspondence covering every county, borough and voting precinct in the commonwealth. Poll books have been distributed, lists of county committees and vigilantes throughout the state have been compiled, and everything has been gotten into shape to begin operations at the headquarters here without delay.

A GREAT ORGANIZATION.

The organization of the Republican party in Pennsylvania is a marvelous institution.

There is nothing like it in the country. No political organization in the world, it is believed, can compare with it. It has a wonderful system and it is always in touch with the voters. The name and address of every voter in the commonwealth, with precise information regarding his politics and environment, can be found at the headquarters of the Republican state committee, and at the outset of each campaign these lists are revised and brought up to date for use both prior to and at the election.

Like the successful newspaper advertisers, the managers of the Republican organization of Pennsylvania attribute their success to "keeping everlastingly at it."

They do not let their interest in the county organizations lag after a campaign has been fought, but they go to work at once to prepare for the next contest. The rank and file of the party workers appreciate this, and they join heartily in the efforts to have their respective county organizations constantly in touch with their voters and ready at all times to respond to requests from the chairman of the state committee for information desired for the welfare of the party.

Republicans in other sections of the Union have come to look upon Pennsylvania as the best organized state in the country.

The fact that the Republican majorities are invariably greater than those given in any other state can be traced to the system which keeps the county organizations in constant and direct touch with the state committee.

It is proposed in the present campaign that there shall be nothing left undone to make the result of the election in November eminently satisfactory to the party leaders, both in the state and the nation.

Republican committeemen throughout the state have been at work looking up Republican voters and getting them registered so as to qualify them to vote at the election, which falls this year on November 3. After getting their voters registered, the Republican workers will see to it that they are qualified to vote.

Saturday, October 3, will be the last day for the payment of taxes to qualify voters for the November election. In the vast amount of literature which has already been sent out by Secretary Andrews, the importance of registering and having the voters pay their taxes has been duly impressed upon the committeemen.

WILL BE AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN.

The plans for the state campaign have not been fully determined upon, but it is known that the canvass, while it will be a short one, will be made upon the most aggressive lines and that a determined effort will be made to poll a large Republican vote in every county in the state. Meetings will be held whenever requested by the chairmen of the county committees, and every assistance will be given by the Republican state committee to the local organizations to rouse enthusiasm among the voters and in other ways to insure the best possible results for the ticket.

The candidates named by the Republican state convention are all men of unimpeachable character. They have all been before the people, and their records are above reproach. The nominees for the superior court, Judge John J. Henderson, of Crawford county, and Judge Thomas A. Morrison, of McKean county, have both served on the bench, and each has won an enviable reputation among the members of the bar and the judiciary of the commonwealth.

Senator William P. Snyder, of Chester county, the nominee for auditor general, and William L. Mathues, of Delaware county, the candidate for state treasurer, are both aggressive and sturdy representatives of the stalwart Republicanism of Pennsylvania, and they have merited by their public services and their devotion to the interests of the people the honors conferred upon them by their party. They have been in the searchlight of public opinion for years, and not a single dishonorable or discreditable act can be traced to either of them.

In the communities in which they are best known it is predicted they will each be given unprecedented majorities at the coming election.

KEYSTONE STATE IS FOREMOST

Clubmen of Pennsylvania Regard the State Canvass This Fall As the Skirmish of Next Year's Presidential Battle.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, Sept. 1.—As Pennsylvania was foremost for McKinley, when the movement for his nomination for the presidency was inaugurated, so the Keystone state is first in the election of delegates to insure the nomination of Roosevelt to succeed himself in the White House.

Luzerne county, of this state, has the credit of electing the first delegates chosen to the next Republican national convention, and they are both pledged to Roosevelt. Berks came next and did likewise.

This is in accord with the action of the last two state conventions of the Republican party, and the declared purpose of the party leaders to have a solid delegation in the next national convention, not only to vote for the nomination of Roosevelt, but to co-operate with the friends of his administration in all matters deemed desirable to insure success in the coming national campaign.

Pennsylvania being distinctively a Roosevelt state, it is important that the victory of the Republican party in the canvass this fall shall be pronounced and decisive. The party managers feel that the returns from Pennsylvania should demonstrate that the people of the country are back of the president, are in accord with his administration and demand his election for another term. They, therefore, propose to roll up a rousing majority for the entire Republican ticket in November next.

NOT AN OFF YEAR.

While some contend that this is what is known as an "off year," and that the election returns can have no significance outside of the state, the influential leaders hold that if Pennsylvania shall not make a good showing for the Republican candidates this fall the political opponents of the national administration will be given an opportunity to argue that the voters are not favorable to a continuance of Republican direction of the government, or that the people are not in sympathy with the attitude of the Republican organization of this state in its unqualified indorsement of Roosevelt to succeed himself.

While the Democrats are studiously avoiding a discussion of national issues, the Republicans will not hesitate to touch upon such matters whenever the occasion shall be presented during the coming canvass.

The aggressive young Republicans who constitute the Republican State League of Pennsylvania have arranged to meet in Wilkesbarre on the 22d, 23d and 24th of this month, and they have already announced that they intend to place their organization emphatically on record in favor of the nomination of Roosevelt.

TO SOUND KEYNOTES.

The keynotes of the campaign in this state will be sounded at this gathering and the banner of stalwart Republicanism will be unfurled triumphantly for a vigorous and determined canvass for the state ticket.

The Republican clubmen will from that time press their work of recruiting for the coming national campaign, and they will properly regard the contest this fall as the skirmish of the great battle for the presidency next year.

The Republican leaders in Pennsylvania rely upon the popularity of Roosevelt among the great mass of the people, especially the voters in the great industrial and mining regions, to aid the Republican cause in the coming campaign.

Frequently the Democrats have been strong in these sections, but the fact that the present national administration has from the outset demonstrated its earnest and sincere interest in the cause of the wage earners has greatly strengthened the Republican party. The Democrats can no longer claim that they have the "labor vote" with them in any of the counties of the state in which they once held forth.

It is in these counties that greatest gains are expected at the coming election, and there is reason to believe that the returns will bear out the predictions of the party leaders.

While the Democrats of Ohio a few days ago, through their state convention, saw fit to reaffirm the Bryanite platforms, both of Chicago and Kansas City, the Republicans of Pennsylvania proudly point to the fact that they stand loyally by the principles of the party of Roosevelt, and they are ready to have the returns of the coming election speak for themselves.

SAYINGS OF THE WISE.

The way of the world is to make laws, but follow customs.—Montaigne.

We carry happiness into our condition, but cannot hope to find it there.—Holmes.

Prosperity is no just scale. Adversity is the only balance to weigh friends.—Plutarch.

Energy will do anything that can be done in this world, and no talents, no circumstances, no opportunities, will make a two legged animal a man without it.—Goethe.

Great, ever fruitful, profitable for reproof, for encouragement, for building up in manful purposes and works, are the words of those that in their day were men.—Carlyle.

Novel Locomotive Exhibit.

One of the interesting exhibits at the St. Louis exposition will be a locomotive of the old red wheel type which used to run between Hannibal and St. Joseph, Mo., before the war, connecting at the latter town with Buffalo Bill's famous pony express, says the Four Track News. Side by side with this will be one of the great Burlington locomotives. This, with numerous similar contrasting exhibits, will tell in a story without words the almost incredible progress of railroading in the last half century.

Pasteurizing Milk.

There are few better foods for babies than those which have milk for a foundation, but the milk must be the best, says Mrs. Catherine Terhune Herrick in the New York American. There are various methods of treating the milk, but the two best known are sterilization and pasteurization. The second process is more generally advocated by those who have made a study of dietetics.

To pasteurize milk have the bottles in which it is to be put scalded in boiling water for twenty minutes, to sterilize them thoroughly; turn the milk into them and set them in a pot of boiling water which has at that moment been taken from the stove. To avoid danger of breaking, a cloth may be laid in the bottom of the pot and the bottles set on this. Leave them in the hot water, a thick cloth spread over them, for half an hour, and then take them out and place them at once in the refrigerator or other cold place. This checks the process of sterilization at just the right stage. The hot water must come nearly to the top of the milk bottles. Understand clearly that the water is not to boil after the milk bottles are put in it, but is to be kept hot off the stove.

Of course the undiluted milk is not given to a very young infant. Either boiled water or barley water is added to it in a proportion graded by the age and condition of the child. At first the milk and water are given with about one part of milk to two of water, or even more, as the doctor decides, with the addition of a small quantity of sugar of milk, and the proportion of milk is increased as the child grows older.

He thought it a joke.
He went to a broker.
And now he is broke.

PIANO PLAYING CHAMPION.

Thumped the Ivories Continuously For Twenty-six Hours.

With blisters on his fingers and his nerves and muscles in a state of utter collapse, J. M. Waterbury ended a twenty-six hours' sitting at a piano which he had been playing without intermission in a saloon in Belleville, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

He played ragtime, lullabies, grand opera, light opera, topical songs, "heart" songs, old fashioned music, twosteps, waltzes, polkas—everything except hymns.

He ate only one Swiss cheese sandwich and one ham sandwich and drank only whisky. He smoked cigarettes with almost little cessation as he played the piano. For most of the time he was sitting on the orthodox piano stool, but now and then he would stand, "resting" in that way on one occasion for an hour.

Waterbury says his best previous "endurance" record was made in the Lambs' club rooms in New York city. This was a contest, Ada Belleville being his opponent. She played for twenty-four hours; he lasted an hour longer.

He claims that he is the world's champion in his particular line and challenges anybody to try to beat him. He has formulated a set of rules to govern such a contest, and they provide that the player shall use his bare fingers, without gloves or stalls; he may select his own music, but must not pause to turn sheets or change positions; "vamping" or playing chords prohibited, and the player must use both hands all the time; food and drink must be given by an attendant, no pause of as much as ten seconds during the contest.

Marrons Glaces.

The marrons glaces, which are imported from France at $1.50 per pound, can be very easily made at home. In France the chestnuts are peeled and boiled in clear water, after which the skins are removed. They are then placed in a rich sirup, flavored with Mexican vanilla, where they remain for about three days. They are then taken out and allowed to drain and are again coated with vanilla and packed in jars with the sirup.—Exchange.

Mildew.

Mildew is one of the most difficult of all stains to remove. Rub well with brown soap, then apply a paste of chalk and water and put the stained article in the hot sunshine. After two or three applications the mildew may be bleached out.

BROOM STOCK BOOMS

From the facts presented you will understand why stock of the International Broom Company, Manufacturers of the Twentieth Century Broom, is a gilt-edged investment, and why it is regarded as such by all who will not put their money into any enterprise unless they see great and speedy profits ahead. Owing to the quick growth and great progress of the International Broom Company the stock has been advanced to

60 CENTS A SHARE.

We would advise intending investors to avail themselves of this low price and purchase before another raise. With the various applications for sub-companies now in hand, there is no doubt that about the latter part of August the price will be advanced to

75 CENTS A SHARE.

The high place The New Broom gained in public favor is due to the Company's ability to produce solid proof of every statement.

Contract closed for sub-company in Chicago with largest broom manufacturer in the United States.

Contract closed for sub-company in New Haven, Conn.

Contract will be closed shortly for sub-company in Kansas City.

Contract will be closed shortly for sub-company in Fall River, Mass.

Contract will be closed shortly for sub-company in City of Mexico.

Sub-Company now manufacturing the New Broom in Ottawa, Ont.

All on royalties to the parent company—The Ottawa Company alone will pay the International Broom Company about $25,000 a year in royalties.

20 Other Applications for Sub-Companies Now Pending.

WE ASSERT AND CAN PROVE

That the demand for The New Broom is as wide as the civilized world.

That it is the only sanitary broom made.

That the Brooklyn factory made in April, 1903, twice as many brooms as in March and four times as many as in February, and earned a profit of more than 25 per cent. over its operating expenses on its production.

That dealers, wholesale and retail, think so well of The New Broom that they are becoming stockholders in the Company.

If we could not prove all this, and more, we should not expect any careful and conservative investor to buy this stock.

As we are thoroughly familiar with the plans and projects of the Company and the possibilities of The New Broom we unhesitatingly declare that this stock should very soon pay a dividend in the par value and rapidly advance until it sells for $2.00 or $3.00 per share.

It is, therefore, advisable that intending investors who wish to investigate this proposition do so at an early date before the next advance in price is announced. Those who subscribe now will be benefited by the increase.

Intending investors can obtain full particulars and ample proof of the claims of this Company on application at our office.

What a splendid type of tireless activity is the sun as the psalmist describes it issuing like "a bridegroom from his chamber and rejoicing like a strong man to run a race." Every man ought to rise in the morning refreshed by slumber and renewed by rest, eager for the struggle of the day. But how rarely this is so. Most people rise still unrefreshed, and dreading the strain of the day's labors. The cause of this is deficient vitality and behind this lies a deficent supply of pure, rich blood, and an inadequate nourishment of the body. There is nothing that will give a man strength and energy, as will Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It does this by increasing the quanity and quality of the blood supply. This nourishes the nerves, feeds the brain, builds up enfeebled organs, and gives that sense of strength and power which makes the struggle of life a joy. The "good feeling" which follows the use of Golden Medical Discovery is not due to stimulation as it contains no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant. It does not brace up the body, but builds it up into a condition of sound health.

SNOW SHOE.

The indications are that the employes at the weather Bureau in Washington are on a strike, and that the chief has hired a lot of green hands that know about as much about weather making as the Railroaders do about base-ball playing. Snow Shoe for one has decided to take her custom elsewhere if the Washington office cannot supply her with the first class article.

Base ball is so much the rage in Snow Shoe just now that the wise men of the town say that it will be nothing short of a miracle if the playing stops before Christmas. The town at present can boast of at least eight well equipped teams. We have the "Regular" teams 1, 2, 3, and 4 and the "Hot Air Men," the Railroaders, the Lehigh Valley Team (professional) and the Business Men, besides a miscellaneous assortment of teams whose names will be furnished upon application.

Mrs. W. C. Snyder left for Hollidaysburg Monday morning where she expects to visit for some time.

Miss Flora Penney went to Philipsburg Saturday morning where she is to teach this winter, we know the young people especially will miss Miss Penny very much this winter, but we are glad to hear she has a much better school than last winter, which her record shows she deserves.

We hear that since our friend Jerry Crandall has gone to spend the winter in Philipsburg, that W. A. Sickel, inventor and sole proprietor of the "Hot Air Machine" has found an able and willing successor of Jerry as chief generator for said machine in Mr. Augustus Kech who has lately sprung into prominence as catcher of the "Hot Air" base-ball team.

A crowd of about a dozen young people spent a very enjoyable evening at J. P. Irwin's last Friday.

If you wish to hear scientific and classical subjects discussed by the sages of the town, simply repair to Sickle's Mountain Pharmacy any night in the week between the hours of seven and eleven and you will not be disappointed. Among the subjects that can be argued most fluently on account of their being most frequently rehearsed are: "The whyness of the what" and "The Dissimilarity between radium and a box-car.

Our base-ball team played the Karthaus team at Karthaus last Saturday. The game was of short duration, ending in the second inning by Karthaus leaving the field and forfeiting the game to Snow Shoe by a score of 9-0. The dispute arose over a decision given by the Snow Shoe umpire, we feel sorry for Karthaus that they have so much trouble in playing base ball, and we think it a wise move on their part that they stopped the game so soon for evidently they would have been beaten by a "Coontown" score had the game been finished.

Mr. Burgoyne and Mr. Mellon of Pittsburg are visiting at T. B. Buddinger's—also Miss Mary Hedding of Morrisdale, Pa.

Rev. J. Victor Rover of Frugality, Pa. is spending a few days at the Methodist minister's.

Daniel Ripka lost a valuable cow this week by sickness.

Wm. T. Lingle has the contract to haul the pupils belonging to the Mountain school district to the Beaver Dam school. We understand he gets $140 for his trouble, which is much less than the salary of a teacher would be, and besides the coal and cost of getting them there, amount to a small item.

The Union Sunday School picnic held at Hecla Park August 27th was a pleasant one. The Milesburg band furnished the music and there were amusements in abundance. Two games of base ball were played, the first was a picked nine of young ladies against a picked nine of young gentlemen. In this game lots of fun for old and young ladies were victorians. Second game of young men calling themselves Baptists and Methodists the game was played to a finish. Although raining the Baptists held the Methodists by saying do not be afraid of a little water. That put the vim in the Methodists, both sides played for all that was in it a tight and close game, score 8 to 10 in favor of the Methodists. There were attending the picnic 400 or more.

RED BANK.

In last week's issue of the "Republican" the local correspondent at Scotia mentioned in a very mild and indefinite way a shooting contest which took place at Red Bank a few days ago in which L. C. Rutter was the champion marksman. It was stated that the number of shots fired by this champion of marksmanship was five, which was a mistake. Mr. Rutter fired fourteen shots which struck the target within a radius of one-half inch from centre. Four of these were centres, three were five-sixteenths, four seven-sixteenths, and three one-half inch from the centre. This shooting was done with a rifle with which Mr. Rutter had never practiced shooting and he thinks by a little practice he will be able to drive the centre every time.

We understand that one of the Scotia sportsmen has sent Mr. Rutter a challenge, but it is rather one sided. Any challenge associated with reason, involving a bonus sufficient to warrant a display of his marksmanship, and in which the chances for success are not entirely on the one side, will be accepted.

—The Engineering Magazine for September combines strikingly the qualities of timeliness and technical authority. In the former aspects the telling feature is Mr. W. P. Stephens' study of the modern Cup racing yacht as an engineering development. He traces the movement for increase of horse power per ton of displacement which, first definitely conceived by Herreshoff, has brought in the era of exact scientific methods by which all designers have been led to practically the same model and the engineer has become the chief factor in every stage of the work. The article is instructively and very beautiful illustrated.

HARRY E. SMITH KILLED.

At Milesburg on Thursday Evening on Railroad.

We are called again to chronicle another horrible accident that resulted in the death of one of Milesburg's young men who was suddenly cut off in the midst of his manhood.

Harry or better known to his friends in Milesburg as "Hoke" was a brakesman for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and on Thursday morning arrived home from Pittsburg where he had located, to visit among his friends. His sister who had also been visiting in Milesburg left on the noon train for her home in the western part of the state.

Harry evidently was on his way to Bellefonte when he was struck by the train that reaches this place at 8:16, and was instantly killed. His remains were gathered up and bought to Bellefonte and taken in charge by undertaker Hard P. Harris who has prepared them for burial. Harry Smith was a kind hearted, good natured, fellow, with a fine disposition, and he had many friends who mourn his death. He was the son of the late Edward Smith of Milesburg, his mother was married the second time to Mr. James McMullen. He leaves to mourn his death his mother and stepfather and the following brothers and sisters, Walter, John, Stella, Maud, Mrs. Harry Austin, all of Milesburg, Mrs. Boyd Stonerode, of Coraopolis, Pa., Frank Smith of St. Louis, Mo., Emma, of Pittsburg, and Lena of Tyrone.

He was about 29 years of age. He belonged to the Brotherhood Locomotive Trainmen and also the Relief.

The crew that had charge of the train was John Leisenring Engineer, Harry Robinson fireman and William McNary conductor.

The home of the late Harry Smith at Milesburg, Saturday was filled with sorrowing friends who had gathered to pay a last loving tribute of respect. The services were in charge of Rev. A. C. Lathrop, pastor of the Baptist church. The casket bearers were the following gentlemen, James Campbell, Geo. Johnston, Edward Neighart, Lester Jones, Homer B. Carr and Hicklen Watson. Interment at Roland.

By the way, I saw something interesting in the latter place. What do you think of the Boulevard de Pierpont Morgan? Well, that's what they've got there. I undertsand that Mr. Morgan did something handsome for them there, and, as they couldn't give him anything, they named their principal street after him. We couldn't get over that Boulevard de Pierpont Morgan. It sounded so funny. Things don't change very often in Europe, and when Wall street is a memory Mr. Morgan's name will be well known there."

POEM WON A WIFE.

John Vance Cheney's Verses Interested Woman He Married.

THOU AND I.

Love, I would have thee as the snow is, white
And pure on hilltops of the winter day;
Thou shouldst have sovereign rule, the spirit sway
Of beauty, wide and shining as the light.
Thou shouldst be as the evening star is, bright
As heaven can make it; all thy summer way
The melodies of June should sing and play
In thee, the darling of the day and night.
But I would have thee human first and last,
One not untouched by trouble, sought of sin;
Thine innocence not accident, but choice.
Fit them my service; I should have no past,
No future; newly would my life begin,
Obedient to the music of thy voice.

—John Vance Cheney.

Having won fame as a poet and essayist, it was but fitting that John Vance Cheney should have won his bride with a song. The news of his marriage to Mrs. Sarah Barker Chamberlain of Chicago at Manitou, Colo., which recently reached New York, is coupled with a pretty and romantic story of how the woman of his choice was attracted to him by reading the prophetic sonnet, "Thou and I," in which Mr. Cheney drew the picture of the woman who would enable him to begin his life anew, says the New York Evening Journal.

Each had been married before, and each sought for the affinity that would lead them to the happier life, and so after reading the sonnet the desire to meet the author came to Mrs. Chamberlain. As each had mutual acquaintances it was easy, and it was not long after their meeting that they became engaged, although no public announcement was made of it. They were married at the residence of James F. Ponder in Manitou, Colo., on July 11.

NEW CONSUMPTION CURE.

Italian Physician's Serum Which He Claims Prevents Disease.

"A victory over consumption as brilliant and beneficent as Jenner achieved over smallpox is foreshadowed in the published results of the labors of Professor Edoardo Maragliano, a distinguished Italian physician," says the weekly bulletin of the Chicago health department.

"These results form the subject of the professor's address presented at the fourteenth international medical congress held at Madrid last April.

"Briefly stated in nontechnical language, Professor Maragliano claims to have produced after more than thirty years of study and experiment both in the laboratory and the clinic a serum which introduced beneath the skin as vaccine lymph is in vaccination produces a small circumscribed tuberculosis sore attended with slight fever for two or three days, after which the system of the subject is as immune to tuberculosis or consumption as the properly vaccinated individual is to smallpox."

The Woman's Century.

Many prophets have been saying that this will be the woman's century. At any rate, it looks as if the old maid would disappear before its close. The belles of a generation or two ago were sixteen or eighteen years old, and a woman of twenty-five was regarded as hopelessly stranded if no man had won her. Today the unmarried women do not begin to call themselves "bachelor maids"—the most recent euphemism for "old maid"—until they are past thirty.

STORIES OF SALISBURY

Incidents In the Career of England's Former Premier.

BEGAN AS A NEWSPAPER WRITER.

His Experience "Roughing It" In Australia—Romantic Meeting of His Future Wife—Touching Tribute to Her Memory—His Practical Interest In Electricity and Chemistry—A Scientist as Well as Statesman.

Lord Salisbury, whose death has just removed one of the most eminent of British statesmen, might almost be said to have had hereditary statesman-like attainments. He traced his ancestry back to Norman times, when Robert Sitsilt, founder of the family, was a soldier of renown in the days of William Rufus. The Salisbury branch of the Cecils, however, had its origin from the second son of Sir William Cecil, Lord Burleigh, Queen Elizabeth's famous minister. Robert Cecil became secretary of state and lord high treasurer, like his father before him, and eclipsed his elder brother, who had been created Earl of Exeter, in political reputation. Sir Robert Cecil was made Baron Cecil of Essendine in 1603 and Viscount Cranborne the next year. In 1605 the title of Salisbury was brought into the family, when he was made Earl of Salisbury. James, the seventh earl, was made marquis in 1789. Sir Robert's son, the second earl, sat in the house of commons during the commonwealth. The fourth earl was a Catholic and conspired for the restoration of James II. The first Marquis of Salisbury served for some time in the commons and was Lord Chamberlain from 1783 to 1804, a fellow of the Royal society and a patron of the arts and sciences. James, the second marquis, was lord privy seal in Lord Derby's first administration and in 1858 was lord president of the council. The last named nobleman, father of the late marquis, married the daughter of Bamber Gascoyne, a merchant of the city of London, and on this side the statesman just dead could claim descent from three aldermen of the city.

The late Lord Salisbury, whose full name was Robert Arthur Talbot Gascoyne Cecil, was a second son, and apparently not one of his father's favorites, as he was kept on so meager an allowance that he had to write for the newspapers and reviews to maintain himself.

He was successful at this, for he was not only well educated and rather deft with his pen, but his position as the son of the lord privy seal and president of the council gave him unusual opportunities for getting inside information.

At this time in his life Lord Robert and Millais, the painter, then also a young man, were chums, and they went to Australia together. They lived in a shanty and roughed it at the gold fields for awhile without getting much richer.

Returning to England, the young Cecil promptly married against his father's wishes and went to parliament for the Stamford division, which he represented until the death of his elder brother gave him the marquisate and a seat in the house of lords.

Lord Salisbury was no respecter of persons in his moments of absent mindedness. A recent London dispatch stated that King Edward had an unusual experience with the distinguished statesman and diplomatist. It appears that to Lord Salisbury an audience had been given by his majesty. During a lull in the conversation he lapsed into one of his spells of absent mindedness. On a table close to his lordship was a portrait of the king. He took it up, gazed at it long and critically and then remarked: "Poor old duffer. I wonder if he is as stupid as he looks." Edward is not a "duffer," and he doesn't look "stupid." So of course there was no sting in Lord Salisbury's observation.

The legend descriptive of the first meeting of Lord Salisbury, then Lord Robert Cecil, and his future wife has the merit at least of being interesting even if its claim to the higher merit of accuracy is doubtful. "Miss Alderson," the raconteur states, "was by some accident shut in a village church she had entered to sketch. Night was stealing on before the young lady discovered this, and she began to get alarmed. She tried in vain to force the door, and shouting and rapping at the window proved useless. As a last resource she rang the bell that summoned the villagers to church each Sunday. It happened there was staying in the village a young gentleman who declined to be influenced by statements that the devil was in the belfry. Though he could not persuade any one to accompany him, he set out on his errand of rescue undeterred. Within six months after their meeting in the church they had become engaged."

Death of William P. Fisher.

William P. Fisher, of near Unionville, died at his home in Union Township, on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. He was eighty five years, three months and eleven days old. He was a grand-son of William Fisher who removed from Chester county to the Bald Eagle Valley in the fall of 1800. He brought a family of eight children, namely, Mary, Lydia, Hannah, Elizabeth, Beulah, Sarah, William Jr., and Thomas. The latter never married. William was born July 1789, and married Rachel Meredith in 1811, and located on that portion of the Fisher homestead now situated in Union township. His children were Hannah, Rachel, Beulah, Mary J., William P., John I. and Ezra.

William P. Fisher was born May 15, 1818. He married a daughter of Thomas Wilson in 1846. In 1848 he moved to his present location, then a portion of the Underwood tract. Eight years before he founded a nursery on his fathers old place and when he moved to his present abode, he entered upon the business of fruit growing with much vigor. He has followed it to a greater or less extent ever since and as proprietor of the Bald Eagle Nursery, has identified himself with the fruit trade of the county. He made himself celebrated for his exceptionally honest, correct and conscientious dealings with every one. If such a thing is possible, he was honest and conscientious to a fault. He was correct to a minute exactness, a loving affectionate father, a kind, indulgent neighbor, a man of such generous character and noble worth that men looking on him in admiration praised him as "A man on which every art had conspired to set its seal to give the world assurance of a man."

"None knew him but to love him,
Nor named him but to praise."

"This brave and tender man in every storm of life was oak and rock; but in the sunshine he was vine and flower. He was the friend of all heroic souls. He climbed the heights and left all groveling thoughts far below while on his forehead fell the golden dawning of the grander day."

He was a worshipper of liberty, a friend of the oppressed. The slave in that elder day when the poor creatures were fleeing to liberty and Canada; never passed his way without receiving a kind word and all necessary assistance for he believed "For justice all place a temple, and all season summer." He added to the sum of human joy; and were every one to whom he did some loving service to bring a blossom to his grave he would sleep amid a wilderness of flowers.

Words cannot contain our love. There was, there is, no gentler, stronger, manlier man. The record of a generous life runs like a vine around the memory of our dead, and every sweet, unselfish act is now a perfumed flower."

We had known William P. Fisher, for thirty years and the eulogy we have given to his memory in the above we feel in our heart of hearts we could not have bestowed upon a worthier subject. We had learned to love and respect the man for all the noble qualities which a man can possess, but a few days ago he called on us at our office we saw he was growing feeble. For years we had noticed his head silvering from year to year, his constitution wasting slowly away, and his eyes growing gradually dim, and felt that he was soon to leave us and now that his place is vacant, his voice hushed in perpetual silence and the venerable form upon which we had so often gazed with delight is mouldering in the dust makes our spirit sad.

"And what is Death?
I kiss the, gentle sister; thou art cold
And pale, and hast life's winter on thy brow,
Its silence on thy lips. But spring will come,
And thou shall wear such garlands as the hand Of time cannot derange."

His wife died several years ago. He is survived by the following children: Mrs. Mary Holmes, of Baltimore, Mrs. Lucretia Way, of Stormstown; Jennie and Elwood, at home; former county commissioner Thos. W. Fisher, of Unionville; Wm, Jr., an attorney in New York city, and Mrs. Cora McMinn, of DuBois.

Interment was made in the Friend's burying ground, near Unionville, last Friday afternoon at 1:30.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is just as good for children as it is for adults. Children thrive on it. It keeps their little stomachs sweet and encourages their growth and development. TWENTY WERE KILLED.

Disastrous Railroad Collision on Eastern Frontier of Italy Thursday Night,

EIGHTY MEN WERE WOUNDED

Festivities and Demonstrations in Honor of King and Queen of Italy Cut Short by Affair.

OFFICERS AMONG THE VICTIMS.

ROME, August 29.—A disastrous railroad accident hascut short the festivities and demonstrations in honor ot the king and queen at Udine, the chief town on the eastern frontier, sixty miles from Venice where the sovereigns had gone to view the grand army manoeuvers. At 10 o'clock Friday night, near Udine, a train overflowing with soldiers collided with a freight train. The force of the collision was terrific. Those on board were thrown in all directions and the coaches were broken up.

The dead number twenty and wounded eighty, including six officers. A captain who was killed had his head cut off and an engineer driver was burned alive. Both engines were entirely destroyed and several of the cars were crushed into splinters. The colonel in command of the soldiers was among the injured.

Darkness rendered the confusion about the scene of the wreck extreme, while the terror among those who escaped injury was increased when the trains took fire a few minutes after the collision. Fortunately the flames were immediately extinguished. Special trains were hurriedly sent to the scene of the disaster, carrying the authorities from the nearest town who organized a corps of physicians and administered to the wounded.

King Victor Emmanuel visited the hospital in person later to see the victims of the accident. The transportation of the wounded was a pitiful sight, women crying all along the route.

—"I had diabetes in its worst form." writes: Marion Lee of Dunreath, Ind. "I tried eight physicians without relief. Only three bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made me a well man." C. M. Parrish.

Obsevation Party.

On Thursday evening Mrs. Emil Joseph gave what is called an obeervation party at her beautiful home on High street in honor of Miss Miriam H. Wallach of New York City. The evening was spent in singing, dancing and playing whist. The prizes were won by Mrs. Dr. Kilpatrick and Mr. Frank Newbaker. The singing of Miss Miriam Wallach was exceptionally pretty as she possesses a well trained and cultivated voice. Mr. E. Wallach who is a guest tat the Joseph home is a violin player, one of rare ability and during the evening charmed the guests with sweet music.

Elegant refreshments were served about eleven o'clock, after which all joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne" and "Home Sweet Home."

CONSUMPTION THREATENED.

"I was troubled with a hacking cough for a year and I thought I had consumption," says C. Unger, 211 Maple St., Champaign, Ill. "I tried a great many remedies and I was under the care of physicians for several months. I used one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar.nott since." C. M. Parrish.

WHISKERS IN SEASON.

The Remarkable Results of a Skin Grafting Operation.

Perhaps the most curious case of surgery that was ever performed in the region of the Adirondacks is that which was executed upon William McCoy, a woodsman, says a Norwood (N. Y.) dispatch.

McCoy has just returned from the Spruce Lake mountain lumber camp after an absence of two years. He brings with him the strange story and its proof.

A year ago last May he was working with John Duffey getting out some long poles to repair a shoot which is used to slide logs down the mountain side. Duffey went to cut a limb by an upward swing when the ax slipped from his hands and went flying through the air. It struck McCoy, and its keen edge shaved off the greater part of his right cheek. The wound was covered with a piece of the skin of a young fawn, over which was rubbed a thick coat of balsam gum, and over that tight bandages.

A week afterward Henry took off the bandage. The graft was found to be a perfect success. The wound was healing rapidly, and it appeared that the scar would show but slightly. In four weeks McCoy's wound healed so well that he was able to go to work. Soon afterward, however, he noticed when he drew his hand across his cheek that hair was growing on the grafted skin. He was rather pleased at that, for he thought that he might wear a beard and thus entirely hide the scar. But in a few days more the hair had grown so thickly that its color and nature were plainly visible. It was the hair of the fawn growing, and, moreover, it was spotted like that of a fawn. He did not dare to shave for fear of breaking open the skin and allowed it to grow until the fall of the year. Then the spots disappeared and the "blue" coat of a full grown deer took its place.

When spring came around he saw that the hair of his cheek was falling out, and fine red hair was growing. At last the blue or winter coat was entirely gone, and the red summer coat took its place. In fact, he and the other woodsmen, to their merriment, saw that the grafted skin varied and changed precisely as does the coat of a deer.

He had recited to his class the story of Abraham entertaining angels unaware. Feeling that the children might not know the meaning of the word "unaware," he asked them if they did. One little hand went up promptly, and the smallest girl in the class said:

"The thing you wear next your skin."

Systematic Grange Work.

"There is no genius like the genius of labor. There is no reward like that which comes to energy, system, perseverance." The great Napoleon never uttered a greater truth than that, and the grange which would accomplish results and become a real help to the members must be systematic and persistent in its work. The grange which has one big feast at the beginning of the year, at which the members come to pay their dues, and which lays dormant the balance of the year might as well be out of commission so far as practical help to its members is concerned. It is the regular, systematic work which counts for real good in the grange as elsewhere.

In Harrisville township, in Michigan, there is a school building which is occupied by the public school, a church congregation and the grange. The upper story is used by the church and the grange.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Death of Mrs. J. W. Rhone.

Mrs. J. W. Rhone died at her home in Los Angeles, Cal., of heart failure, after a year's ailment. Two children survive: Ellen, living at home, and Dr. Charles, in Arizona; also one brother, Judge B. Frank Keller, of Barnwell, W. Va., and three sisters; Clara and Sallie J., of Boalsburg, and Mrs. Sophia Hall, of Baltimore, Md. The late D. C. Keller, Esq., was a brother.

Dr. J. W. Rhone for many years resided in Bellefonte and was a dentist, occupying the building remodeled into the Eagle block.

Sickness steals more savings than the burglar. Slowly, coin by coin, the money that has been so hardly earned is paid out for drugs and doctors. Sickness is the worst enemy of the working man, and the common cause of the working man's sickness is disease of the stomach often involving the heart, lungs, liver, or kidneys.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will stop the stealing of the savings by sickness. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures diseases of heart, liver, lungs, kidneys, etc., when these diseases are caused by the diseased condition of the stomach and its allied organs.

"About ten years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach," writes Wm. Connolly, of 535 Walnut Street, Lorain, Ohio, "It got so bad I had to lay off quite often two and three days in a week, my stomach would bloat, and I would belch up gas, and was in awful distress at such times. I have employed and been treated by the best doctors in the city but got no help whatever. By some way or other I happened to get hold of a vial of your 'Pellets,' and I thought they helped me. It was then I wrote to you for advice. You told me that by my symptoms you thought I had liver complaint, and advised the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' in connection. These medicines I have taken as directed, and am very happy to state that I commenced to get better from the start and have not lost a day this summer on account of my stomach. I feel tiptop, and better than I have for ten years."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." Nothing else is "just as good."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels.

Two Views of the Same Question.

A noted bishop in order to point a lesson in humility sometimes tells a story of a young clergyman whose first appointment was to be an out of the way and poor parish.

On his first Sunday in this new station the young man as he looked over his wretchedly clad and ignorant congregation could not help saying to himself, with a groan:

"Dear me, what a dreadful thing it would be if I should have to stay here any great length of time!"

At the end of the sermon a deacon made a prayer. To the young man's horror one part of the prayer was a benevolent hope that "this ignorant, inexperienced, barren pastor that had lately come to the parish might improve and grow learned and fruitful in good works, so that he would come to merit being kept on there for awhile."

Knew What a Bay Was.

One day a little girl in the fifth grade came home from school and told her mother she knew all about peninsulas, harbors, islands, etc.

"Well," said mother, "tell me what a bay is." The child could not answer this, and her little brother said:

"Why, don't you know what a bay is? A bay is a red horse."

A PHYSICIAN HEALED.

Dr. Geo. Ewing, a practicing physician of Smith's Grove, Ky., for over thirty years, writes his personal experience with Foley's Kidney Cure: "For years I had been greatly bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and enlarged prostrate glands. I used everything known to the profession without relief, until I commenced to use Foley's Kidney Cure. After taking three bottles I was entirely relieved and cured. I perscribe it now daily in my practice and heartily recommend its use to all physicians for such troubles. I have perscribed it in hundreds of cases with perfect success." C. M. Parrish.

NEW FRUIT SPRAY.

Missouri University Professor Invents a Deadly Powder.

Dr. R. M. Bird of the Missouri experiment station has made a discovery that will be welcomed by all fruit growers and horticulturists, says a Columbia (Mo.) special to the St. Louis Republic. It is a dry powder for spraying fruit trees and has proved more deadly to all insects affecting trees and plants than the liquid sprays now in use.

During the early spring so many inquiries were received at Columbia regarding the manner of destroying insects that Dr. Bird began looking for something that would be superior to the present method of spraying. The result of the investigation is a very fine powder, which contains copper in the same form that occurs in the liquid mixture. The spraying of fruit trees and vines has become a necessity among commercial fruit growers. The liquid mixture hitherto has given the best results.

Death Note For Mosquitoes.

The ordinary petroleum methods having been found useless in exterminating mosquitoes, the board of health of Brookline, Mass., is preparing to use the electrical vibrator which has been constructed by John F. Fleming, says the New York Tribune. The vibrator will play a high note, D, which, it is said, will attract and kill mosquitoes. A 110 volt current in the vibrator sounds the note 100 times a second. This note is said to be exactly the same as that sounded by the female in attracting the male insect.

CARRIER PIGEON DEPOTS.

Germany's New Plan For Using the Birds as Messengers.

A result of experiments with carrier pigeons, made of late by the German naval authorities, is that permanent stations for the birds are to be established at Helgoland and Wilhelmshaven in the North sea and Friedrichsort in the Baltic, says the London Globe. Sixty-one carrier pigeon clubs have placed their birds at the service of the German admiralty. The trials made prove that birds can fly home oversea a distance of 300 kilometers. To insure the delivery of a dispatch for distances of eighty kilometers from land two birds will carry the same message, and for the greater distances up to 300 kilometers from three to five birds will be released, each bearing a copy of the same message. A minimum speed of one kilometer (about two-thirds of a mile) a minute is reckoned upon.

The general practice of sending the message in a quill attached to the tail feather will be abandoned. Instead it will be written on thin vegetable paper, slipped into an india rubber case and secured to the bird's foot by means of an india rubber ring. As the birds arrive at their homes on land the messages will be forwarded to the proper quarter. At the pigeon stations on the North sea coast are wireless telegraphs that will retransmit the message to the head office. In future every war ship, excepting torpedo boats, will be required to carry pigeons to be released at varying distances from the land stations.

TROLLEY OMNIBUSES.

A Novelty In City Street Vehicles to Be Tried In England.

A bill is before the English parliament authorizing the introduction of trolley omnibuses in Gloucestershire.

The trolley omnibus, while free to maneuver over the road like an ordinary bus, derives its current from overhead wires like a tram car, though, unlike the latter, it has no special track. Services are to be found between Samois and Fontainebleu, in France; between Koenigstein and Koenigsbrunn, in the valley of the Biela, and in other places, but it has never been tried in the United Kingdom. Mr. A. A. Campbell Swinton, the engineer of the company, says in the London Chronicle:

"What we propose to do is to put up poles carrying two trolley wires similar to those used for tramway purposes. The cost of the overhead equipment will be the same as in the case of tramways. What will be saved will be the cost of the permanent way, which is always a very large item."

While an ordinary electric tramway costs about $35,000 a mile to lay, an overhead trolley motor car system would cost something like $5,000 a mile. Where a vast amount of traffic has to be dealt with an electric tramway or light railway would have to be laid, but in country districts and among scattered populations the electric trolley bus should find a wide sphere of usefulness.

BATTLES OF THE FUTURE.

To Be Fought With Shrapnel, Not Small Arms, Says an Officer.

In a recent issue of Harper's Weekly Mr. George E. Summers, M. E., writes of the new field artillery used in the United States army. The article has been examined and its publication authorized by the secretary of war, so that it may be considered in effect official. The new field guns described by Mr. Summers will carry effectively about three miles, and the extreme rapidity of fire will permit of a shot once in two seconds, or about as fast as an ordinary Winchester repeating rifle.

As it takes about seventeen seconds for a shell to go three miles, it will be possible to keep eight fifteen pound shrapnel in the air at once, and Mr. Summers points out as a possibility that "the enemy might then receive seven shots after it had surrendered." He believes that, as the distance necessary for effectual warfare between combatants is increasing yearly, the battles of the future will be fought not with small arms, but with shrapnel, at a distance of from two to three miles.

Wished Lipton Good Luck.

Before the train which conveyed Sir Thomas Lipton to Washington on his recent visit to President Roosevelt left Jersey City an Irish woman who cleans out the cars in the Pennsylvania yards learned from a train hand that Sir Thomas was on board.

"Hooroo!" she cried. "Divil a bit more work will I do until I see Sir Tommy."

She threw aside her broom and duster and made a rush for the drawing room car, says the New York World.

"Where's Sir Tommy?" she demanded as she ran up and down the platform. Sir Thomas obligingly appeared at a window.

"Good luck to ye!" she shouted. "The Shamrock 'll win sure this time."

Sir Thomas raised his hat and smiled, and she went away happy.

The "Towing Cure."

An eminent London doctor whose nervous system had suffered severely through overwork recently took a trip from Staines to Oxford, having himself towed all the way, says London Truth. He is now advising every patient whose nerves are unstrung to undergo the "towing cure." The quiet there is in a boat which is being slowly towed, the gentle ripple which follows the boat and the soothing motion, together with the fresh air, are said to have a wonderful effect upon the nerves.

—Friday evening last at the First Methodist church in Huntingdon the eightieth birthday anniversary of the Rev. Dr. B. B. Hamlin was appropriately celebrated. —A few days ago while Brady Derr, of Penn township, Lycoming county, was engaged in cutting briars he sat down along the fence to rest, and the day being quite sultry he became drowsy and fell into a doze. He was badly frightened but managed to escape.

—Lock Haven Express: A ghastly and ghostly story is given to the world by an undertaker at Otto, near Herndon, in Northumberland county. The likeness remained although the paper was removed and the ceiling whitewashed. Last week a son died in the same room under identically the same circumstances and both pictures are now to be seen.

—The annual Convention of the W. C. T. U., of Centre County will be held in Petrikin Hall Thursday and Friday September 10th and 11th. There will be a public meeting on Thursday evening to be addressed by Miss Belle Kearney of Miss., of whom the Washington Post says: Miss Belle Kearney, of Miss., was introduced. Her address was the most remarkable one of the evening. A masterpiece of oratory backed up by an endless array of facts most forcibly expressed.—The Washington Post, Washington, D. C. (The meeting held in honor of the presentation of the Polyglot Petition to the President of the United States.)

—The Sharon News tells of a girl who found a package of love letters that had been written to her mother by her father before they married. The daughter saw that she could have a little sport and read them to her mother, substituting her own name for that of her mother and a fine young man for that of her father. The mother jumped up and down in her chair, shifted her feet, seemed terribly disgusted, and forbade her daughter having anything to do with a young man who would write such sickening and nonsensical stuff to a girl. When the young lady handed the letters to her mother to read, the house became so still that one could hear the grass growing in the back yard.

THE IDEAL AMERICAN WOMAN.

Her Steamer Outfit—My Impressions of Her on a Trip Across the Atlantic.

It is universally conceded that the American woman is the best dressed woman in the world, and a trip across the Atlantic with her—represented as she was from every state in the Union—would have convinced any skeptic remaining among those not above the pangs of envy.

I will try to picture to you the composite American woman as I saw her. She goes on board in New York in a Mohair Secillian or linen suit, with a dainty light shirt waist and charming straw hat, and makes one in a pretty line of well dressed women along the railing as the steamer slips from the harbor.

Then, after appearing at dinner in the same gown, she puts it neatly away in her steamer trunk or Cross bag, not to be seen again until the ship docks, when she dons it for a landing costume.

Her second frock shows her good sense. It is a walking skirt of Botany broadcloth with jacket to match, worn over a severe shirt waist of flannel, tailored hat and heavy La Romo gloves.

The well dressed American woman loses none of her land chic at sea, but rather appears in a new and charming light, for the sea and shipboard form an exceedingly becoming setting for a woman, provided she is clad in a way to cope with the unusual conditions they impose.

So our sensible American heeds not the stories we hear of the great elaboration in woman's dressing on shipboard. She is a woman of taste and does not go beyond a pretty silk strictly tailor-made waist at dinner, carefully fitted over a C-B A la spirits corset, and a light scarf to keep her hair tidy when stepping on deck for a salt whiff before wrapping herself in her Continental comfort garment and "turning in."

When the weather is really blustery she wears that most comfortable of all head-gear for a windy day, the Visor cap, and with it a long ulster. Thus she presents an attractive picture of American womanhood on which the elements may do their worst without ruffling the serenity of her outline.

A GALAXY OF CIRCUS STARS.

It is Impossible to Tell Who is the Top-Liner With Wallace's Circus.

To ask the management of the Wallace Show to name its foremost feature or to request of a visitor to the circus to do so, is unreasonable. Such a question is about as sensible as the asking of a bookseller what is the best book he sells, or, who is the prettiest woman in the land? Every one would not answer the question in the same way.

There is this season with the Great Wallace Show the greatest array of circus talent assembled under canvas. It is a mighty conclave of arenic notables, any one of whom would be a top-liner on the program of the world's best theater, or a drawing card for inferior shows.

In a partial list would include the famous Calcomat, aerialist supreme; the Stirk Family, masters of the wheel; the Dellameads, the greatest exponents of statuary posing; the Silverton Trio, the high-wire artists; the Earl Sisters, the particular stars of aerialistic work, Mlle. Norada French and her mysterious globe; the Vortex Sisters, the nymphs of the gyrating trapeze; Orrin Hollis, champion of bareback riders; Alex. Lowanda, the daring equestrian Apollo of the Arena; the Blue and the Gray March creation by twenty-four handsome women; the Wentzelle Cycle Whirl; Fred Jenks' troupe of comedy skaters; the Kitamora Troupe of nine Japanese; the Livingstons; the Alpine Family, and scores of other names would have to be given should we give a complete list of those who have trunks in the dressing tent of the Wallace Circus, but what is the use of mentioning any more.

The public has faith in the pledges and promises of the Wallace Circus, because it has learned that show for one lives up to and gives beyond its advertised promises.

Just as sure as the Great Wallace Show is advertised to exhibit in Bellefonte on Tuesday September 8 just so sure will Mr. Wallace find thousands of enthusiastic patrons and friends waiting to be entertained by them.

GAS PLANT SOLD

A Business Deal of Much Importance. Closed Successfully.

For several weeks past Bellefonte has been hearing rumors in regard to the sale of the Bellefonte Gas and Steam Heating plant but nothing definitely was known until Tuesday when the sale of the plant was consumated. Sheriff Hugh S. Taylor is the purchaser and a company is to be formed at once to run the works. Extensive improvements will be made to the plant and an efficient service is assured to the public. This will be good news to the consumers of gas and steam heat in Bellefonte as the shutting down of this plant would be a serious blow to the town.

The terms under which Mr. Taylor acquired the works, are we understand as follows: The present owners will receive bonds to the amount of $30,000 in exchange for the property. These bonds will be subject to a prior lien of $12,000 all of which is to be used in additions and improvements to the plant.
